

How to Draw a Chibi Boy Face

Sketch the basic head shape and guidelines. Make sure the boy's shoulders are broader than a girl's.

Add the eyes, noticing how the boy's eyes rest directly on the centerline. The boy doesn't have eyelashes, but he does have thick eyebrows. Next, add the nose and mouth, remembering to leave more space on the chin area than you would on a girl chibi. Add a boyish hairstyle, with two little tufts standing on end.

Erase unnecessary guidelines. Then add your colors and highlights. You can give the boy any colors you like. Add highlights to his hair to make it appear shiny and round. With dark pupils and brighter highlights, his eyes seem alert. Add a pink flush to his cheeks so he appears as if he's been playing outside.
